

WF100 Coax Cable

Application

WF100 cable, or Webro Foam 100 coax cable is suitable for many applications, including low power video, video signal and broadband signals. It is also be used in high-frequency transmission, especially for transmitters and receivers, computers, radio and TV transmitters.

Description

WF100 cable consists of a 1.00mm solid plain copper conductor, foam polyethylene dielectric, copper foil tape and a plain copper wire braid. Available in either PVC, LSF, LSNH or UG (HDPE – High Density Polyethylene) sheath material and in a range of different colours.